Product Description

Product Description:

Good mechanical properties

The production process of cold rolled steel coil is complicated, which needs to go through many links such as pickling, quenching and finishing.

It has high strength and elasticity, so it is widely used in the manufacture of auto parts, mechanical equipment and building materials.

Decorative and rust resistant

The cold rolled steel coil has smooth surface, no oxide skin and burr, and has good decorative and rust resistance.

Higher precision

The cold-rolled coil product size is accurate, the thickness is uniform, and the thickness difference of the coil is generally not more than 0.01-0.03mm or smaller, which can fully meet the requirements of high-precision tolerances.

The fine scale is thinner

The thinnest cold rolling can be rolled 0.001mm
